Access current journals on JSTOR

The Current Scholarship Program (CSP) provides access to more than 300 high-quality current titles from 52 leading publishers, linking current journals with archival content on JSTOR's trusted platform. Through CSP, publishers may distribute current scholarship and increase visibility, libraries may further consolidate holdings and save money, and scholars may access the full runs—archival and current issues—of academic journals on JSTOR's trusted platform. JSTOR is one of the most heavily used and relied-upon research and teaching platforms for academic libraries. It helps scholars to discover, use, and build upon a wide range of academic content, while ensuring that content's long-term preservation.

Why current journals on JSTOR?

The Current Scholarship Program was a direct response to the needs of the communities we serve. CSP supports our mission to advance fair and sustainable models that promote the widest possible disseminations of scholarly research and preserve publishing diversity. The program helps presses, scholarly associations, libraries, faculty, and students benefit from investment in a shared technology platform and related services.

Current Scholarship Program benefits

- ▶ Access current journal subscriptions on a well-known and trusted platform. JSTOR is both a starting point and a destination for researchers, and our network of linking partnerships helps increase discoverability.
- ▶ Fuel discovery and expand usage of academic content: A wide range of journals and publishers in CSP have seen higher usage on JSTOR as compared to usage on their former platforms.
- ▶ Access more than 300 high quality current titles from 52 leading publishers across a wide range of disciplines.
- ▶ Link current journals in the CSP program with your JSTOR Archive Collection holdings, providing full-run access from volume 1, issue 1 through the current issue.
- ▶ Enjoy flexible subscription options with single title subscriptions and discounted packages.
- ▶ Ensure preservation and perpetual access: All titles in CSP are preserved in Portico, ITHAKA's digital preservation service, and post-cancellation access is available for those titles.
- ▶ Enhance evidence-based collection management via JSTOR's COUNTER-compliant usage statistics for the full-run of a title.
- ▶ Maintain a single license and point of purchase across many publishers and titles.
- ▶ Order subscriptions directly through JSTOR or an agent.

To learn more, or to order or renew CSP titles, please contact participation@jstor.org or visit about.jstor.org/csp.

Participating Publishers

The Current Scholarship Program (CSP) is a true partnership with university presses, societies and other scholarly publishers to make their current and historical journal issues available on a single, integrated platform, as well as ensure long-term preservation of this content. For the 2014 subscription year, 52 esteemed participating publishers offer more than 300 titles through CSP, and many of these offer discounted publisher packages (page 06).

Subscription Options

The Current Scholarship Program offers flexible subscription options and reasonable, transparent pricing. Institutions may subscribe to single titles, discipline collections, discounted publisher packages, or the discounted Complete Current Scholarship Collection.

JSTOR provides current issue access back to the “born digital” date for each title, and access remains fixed back to this date with each additional subscription year. All current issues prices are set by participating publishers, and some publishers and titles offer pricing tiered according to JSTOR classifications. Orders can be placed directly with JSTOR or via your subscription agent. To aid your evaluation process, we provide a free holdings comparison service that compares your existing holdings to titles in CSP.

Subscribe To All Journals

Subscribe to all journals in the program for a savings off the list price. For institutions who participate in a large number of JSTOR Archive Collections, the Complete Current Scholarship Collection provides seamless access to the complete runs of journals on the JSTOR platform. A full run subscription option is also available for access from volume 1, issue 1 to present for all titles.

Comprises all content—272 titles from 51 publishers—for the 2015 subscription year. †

Includes all publisher package discounts, for a total average savings of 19% off list price. For direct orders, JSTOR will apply an additional 3% savings.

Subscribe To Single Titles, Publisher Packages, and Discipline Collections

Publisher Packages: Many of the publishers in CSP offer discounted packages to all of their journals. Available in electronic format, plus P+E or mixed format subscription for some publisher packages.

Discipline Collections: Current journal subscriptions from multiple publishers bundled as collections that serve researchers and scholars in the disciplines where institutions see highest content usage. Available in electronic format. Pricing is set at the sum of all titles in the collection.

Single Title—Current: A subscription to a journal's current issues. This option provides access only to the most recent issues of a single title. Available in electronic format, plus P+E for some titles.

Single Title—Full Run: A subscription to a journal's current and archival issues. This option provides access to the complete run of a single title, from volume 1, issue 1 through the current issue. Please note that pricing in the catalog is for electronic-only full runs.

To order, contact participation@jstor.org.

† The University of California Press package is not included in new 2015 subscriptions to the Complete Current Scholarship Collection. Please contact participation@jstor.org to order the California package. If you are renewing the Complete Current Scholarship Collection for 2015, the California package is included with your renewal.
